HERTER CALLS LAOS TROUBLE 'DANGEROUS'

President Leaves on Trip Tomorrow

Ike Airs His Views On European Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower planned a final public expression of his views at a news conference today before taking off on a European series of history-making ventures in personal diplomacy.

He was expected to tell of his hopes and aims for his flying visit to Europe.

At 3 a.m. Wednesday, his military jetliner is slated to take off from nearby Andrews Air Force Base on a 10-day trip carrying the President to Bonn, London and Paris. He returns Sept. 4.

Eisenhower will see West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, France's President Charles de Gaulle and other Allied leaders in a prelude to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit here next month.

Then, at a still unannounced date later this year, Eisenhower plans to pay a return visit to the Soviet Union in his avowed campaign to melt a little bit of the ice of the cold war.

A mixture of public appearances and private, informal talks with the Western chiefs highlighted the Eisenhower schedule in Europe.

In the diplomatic field, the President was expected to take up with the Allies outstanding problems both within the Western camp and the Communist bloc.

It was believed unlikely here that Eisenhower's discussions of a few hours each with the Western leaders could solve the knotty issues of long standing. But it was hoped the personal contacts would strengthen Western unity and make future solutions easier.

Reports from abroad indicate Eisenhower's toughest tasks will be dealing with De Gaulle and Franco-U.S. difficulties, and dispelling some of the rancor between Britain on one side and France-Germany on the other.

Eisenhower will spend Sept. 2 and 3 in Paris, including more than 10 hours in intimate talks and dinner meetings with De Gaulle.

The President's first stop, however, will be at Bonn, where Adenauer has ordered a full-scale welcome when Eisenhower arrives late Wednesday.

After a day in the West German capital, Eisenhower is scheduled to fly to London and then on to Aberdeen, Scotland, from where he will go with Prince Philip to Balmoral Castle for an overnight stay Aug. 28 as guest of the Queen.

Revision of this doctrine, for instance, might permit both state and local governments to charge a fee for auto registrations.

"Perhaps, through this veto, we can put in motion the steps necessary to resolve the financial relationship of the state and its political subdivisions," DiSalle said.

However, DiSalle had a word of comfort for local governments: "In any event," he wrote, "the local return to local government of gasoline taxes and auto license revenues in the present biennium should be higher dollar-wise than that of the past biennium as a result of natural growth. This will serve to assist while a permanent solution is sought."

The present triennium started July 1.

Object of Search By FBI Captured At Atlanta Airport

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Larry Lord Matherwell, object of a nationwide search, was arrested at the airport early today.

Matherwell, 43, was the object of a search by the FBI in connection with the disappearance of Pearl Ida Putney, 72, a prominent Washington, D.C., widow last August.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said Matherwell, using the name Craig DuBar Foster, was recognized by two FBI agents as he was about to take off on a flight for Cleveland, Ohio.

He offered no resistance and was unarmed.

Matherwell told authorities he had been living in Atlanta since mid-July and that he was unemployed. He was seeking a job as a salesman in Cleveland, the FBI said.

In June 1958, Mrs. Putney and Matherwell left here on a cross-country trip after she sold much of her property, the FBI said.

Approximately a fourth of a human, female skeleton, identified as Mrs. Putney's, was unearthed in Turner Canyon, Sierra County, Calif., Aug. 16, 1959.

California authorities issued a murder warrant for Matherwell and on Aug. 20, the FBI secured a warrant for the arrest of Matherwell for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder.

United Nations Action Seen by U.S. Secretary

Red Rebels Waging Psychological War; Capital Threatened

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter has reportedly told several members of Congress that "the United Nations may take some part in what is going on in Laos before too long."

The report came from Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) Monday after Herter briefed five members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and five members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee at a private session in the State Department.

In the 75-minute session, Herter told the congressmen that the situation in Laos is a "very dangerous one" and he is "deeply concerned about it," Fulbright said.

But, Fulbright continued, Herter reported that the department has not received enough information to see clearly what is going on in the tiny Southeast Asian kingdom.

Meanwhile, the growing concern here over Laos was reflected throughout the government. Officials of several agencies attended a briefing on the situation by the Department of Defense.

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Communist rebels are waging a psychological war of terror with little actual fighting in the province of Luang Prabang, a Defense Ministry spokesman said today.

He said that rebels had thrown bombs, including those of children, into the Nam Seng River to terrorize the population.

Rebel units have reached as far south as Pak Seng, 35 miles above the royal capital of Luang Prabang to reestablish the Communist Pathet Lao political and propaganda machinery, he said.

Two Youths Die On Mountain

Rescue In Sight As Pair Succumb

FRANCONIA, N.H. (AP) — Two young climbers, trapped 28 hours on a ledge halfway up the almost perpendicular granite face of Profile Mountain, died Monday with rescue almost in reach.

The White Mountains bitter weather was too much for them. Clad only in light cotton trousers and shirts, they had endured numbing 38-degree cold overnight, the soaking of a driving rain borne on 50-mile winds, and thick fog.

Appalachian Mountain Club teams, exhausted by a nine-hour climb, planned a new attempt to recover the bodies today, assuming fair weather.

The victims were Alfred Whipple Jr., 20, Gales Ferry, Conn., a sophomore at Brown University, and Sidney Crouch, 21, Ledyard, Conn., a student at Export (Pa.) Bible Institute. They had been friends since elementary school.

John E. Taylor, 29, Princeton, Mass., who led a seven-man team that climbed to the ledge, said they found one man slumped over, either dead or dying. The other was incoherent.

"He could not understand what I was saying. He yelled at me, it appeared to be a monotonous 'Hurry up.'"

"I don't know which one it was. It might have been the older one. When I got within 25 feet of him, his head was bobbing. He was standing erect with his eyes closed."

Taylor said that by the time he got near the marooned pair "I would have to grip a rock, then loosen one hand with the other to move up." He described the cold as incoherent.

David Sanderson, Portsmouth, N.H., climbed to the ledge and lowered the youth still on his feet to Robert Collins, Brookline, Mass., standing 25 feet below. Collins was a student.

Two Persons Injured In Auto Mishaps

A Salem motorist was arrested for reckless operation Monday following a two-car accident at 4:40 p.m. at the intersection of E. 3rd St. and N. Lundy Ave. which injured a passenger in the car operated by Elizabeth B. Schaefer, 52, of W. 7th St. It was one of four traffic mishaps Monday which injured two persons.

The passenger, Mrs. Josephine McFeely, 32, of 639 E. 8th St., was treated at the Central Clinic for minor cuts and bruises.

Police said Alfred D. Smith, 37, of 1450 Ridgewood Dr. told them he was at fault. His car skidded through a red light and knocked the other car into a utility pole. He forfeited a $25 bond when he failed to appear in Mayor's Court last night.

A six-year-old girl suffered a skinned leg at 11:14 a.m. yesterday when a car driven by Wade C. Schaefer, 43, of 1873 N. Ellsworth Ave. knocked her to the pavement at E. State St. and Broadway.

Injured was Karen Nedelka, 24½, E. State St. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Octavian Nedelka. Police said she was crossing the street against the light when the accident occurred.

Cars driven by two residents in the same house ran into each other on E. 4th St. yesterday — causing minor damage to both autos.

James P. McCollum, 17, of 333 E. 4th St. was turning into the driveway at the home of Frank Vincent, 72, was backing up along the curb in front of the house. The accident happened at 2:18 p.m.

Police Describe Coed's Slaying

Girl Apparently Knew Her Killer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A brunette coed steps nude from a bath at her fiancé's apartment and confronts an intruder who will slash her to death with a knife in the next few minutes.

Without bothering to cover herself with a towel from the bathroom, Linda Martin, 21, and the intruder argue for five minutes in voices loud enough for a neighbor to hear.

"You get out of here," Miss Martin finally shrieks. A moment later, as the killer strikes, she cries: "Help me, help me."

Slashed several times — once near the heart — Miss Martin stumbles down a flight of stairs to a side door. Her flailing fists break the door's glass pane in a frantic effort to get away. Then, her life blood ebbing, she scurries and dies.

That's how homicide detectives reconstructed the Sunday night slaying of the talented graduate piano student who planned to marry an art student in a few months.

Police said the fact that she didn't bother to cover herself and argued with the man so long indicated she may have known him. They said she apparently was not sexually molested.

Her fiancé, balding, bearded G. Robert Kinzie, 27, broke down when he returned to the apartment after visiting with friends at a coffee house in Hollywood.

Kinzie works as a ceramics instructor at the nearby University of Southern California, where Miss Martin was a student.

Detectives checked Kinzie's movements Sunday and said they are satisfied he is not involved. However, Kinzie voluntarily took

Sitdown Strike At Prison Farm Is Broken Up

LONDON, Ohio (AP)—A dozen inmates of the London Prison Farm have been returned to Ohio Penitentiary as the result of a five-hour sitdown strike by about 1,200 inmates at the farm Monday.

The disturbance ended when Ohio Highway Patrolmen, armed with riot guns, routed 200 prisoners from Dormitory 7, center of the placid revolt. Dorm 7 inmates were loaded onto trucks and went out into fields in which they earlier had refused to work.

Another 1,000 prisoners who had joined the sitdown strike as sympathizers quickly joined the back-to-work movement.

The prisoners complained about prison food yesterday when the 200 in Dormitory 7 refused to eat breakfast or go into the fields for another workday in the 90-degree-plus heat. But prison farm officials said they believe the head had more to do with the brief rebellion than the food.

An inspection by Highway Patrolmen showed none of the inmates was armed.

There was no violence during the five-hour strike.

The prison farm is a medium-security institution housing more reliable prisoners transferred from Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus.

Explosion Draws Police to School In Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A homemade explosive device blew up outside newly integrated Hall High School Monday night, drawing a swarm of police to the scene.

There was no damage and no one was hurt. The blast apparently was a teen-age prank.

Police grabbed two young white brothers as they ran up a hill from the school, where three Negro girls have attended since Aug. 12.

Names of the boys were not released.

One boy, 17, told police he and his brother, 13, made the bomb from aluminum sulphate they had purchased at Taipei, Formosa, where they lived while their father — a colonel — was stationed there with the air force. They made the device with a glass pint jar.

The older boy said his family had stopped at Little Rock to visit relatives while en route to a new Air Force assignment at Whiteman Air Force Base, Sedalia, Mo. A third youth, their cousin, who "came along for the ride" in the incident, is a senior at Hall. He told newsmen he had nothing to do with the prank.

Housing Bill Is Headed for House Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new billion-dollar housing bill, a substitute for the $1,375,000,000 bill vetoed by President Eisenhower, was called up for expected quick approval today by the House Banking Committee.

But House leaders were in no hurry to get it to the floor before the closing hours of this session, possibly late next week.

Rebuffed once by the President with his veto, leaders plan to complete congressional action on the Senate-passed housing measure just before adjournment and hand it to Eisenhower on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

The bill, passed by the Senate Aug. 18, had been resting in a pigeon hole in the desk of Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) until Monday, when he handed it to the Banking Committee for action.

In its present form, the Senate-passed bill contains features that led the President to veto a large bill passed earlier this session. Among them are provisions for new public housing, loans for college classrooms, and money to build housing for elderly people.

Republicans say that the bill, though cut down from its previous figures, still contains invitations for another veto.

But with Congress showing signs of adjournment fever, its passage without change was forecast.

Major items of the bill provide for:

Urban renewal — 650 million in grant funds available at once, with 100 million earmarked for cities under 100,000 population. The administration asked 300 million dollars for each of the next two years.

Public housing — Authority for 37,000 new units.

College dormitories — 250 million in loans.

College classrooms — 50 million in loans.

Housing for the elderly — 50 million in direct loans.

Cooperative housing — 25 million for co-op mortgage purchases by the Federal National Mortgage Assn.

FHA home mortgage insurance authority — 10 billion dollars.

Lower FHA down payments and increased FHA mortgage.

CENTER STARTED

CLEVELAND (AP) — Construction is starting on a 2-million-dollar air-conditioned shopping center at Scoville Ave. S. E. and East 40th St., in the heart of a densely-populated, urban redevelopment area. It is expected to attract wide attention as the first large, modern shopping center to be built by private enterprise in a federal urban renewal development.

The center is being developed by the Scoville Shopping Center Co., a subsidiary of the Scoville Co., a major retail store chain.

The center will include a variety of shops and services, including a large department store, a clothing store, a shoe store, a jewelry store, a beauty salon, a hair salon, a restaurant, a cafe, a bar, a movie theater, a parking garage, and a bus terminal.

The center is expected to be completed by the end of next year.

The center will be a major landmark in the Scoville area and will provide a wide variety of shopping and entertainment opportunities for the residents of the area.

Secondary Boycott, Picketing Feature Labor Bill Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate House conferees plunge into debate today on two of the most controversial sections of the labor control bill after reaching agreement on three Taft-Hartley provisions.

Up for discussion are secondary boycotts and organizational picketing, two of the three subjects on which the Senate and House versions of the legislation are most sharply divergent.

The 14 conferees worked at two sessions Monday. When the afternoon session broke up, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), conference chairman, reported agreement on these points:

1. To accept the Senate provision under which replaced strikers in a labor dispute would be allowed to vote, but limiting the right to the first nine months of the walkout. There was no limitation in the Senate bill. The House measure did not allow such strikers to vote.

2. To knock out the Senate provision setting up a procedure for prehearing elections in labor disputes. This was designed to eliminate delaying tactics sometimes used to stall elections on the question of union representation.

3. To reject a Senate provision excluding service assistants in the telephone industry from the definition of a supervisor, and thus make them subject to union membership. It was not in the House bill.

The first of these makes a dent in a section of the Taft-Hartley law—a section once denounced by President Eisenhower as union-busting. Some employers strongly opposed eliminating it.

The prehearing election provision also had administration support but again was fought by some employers, especially retailers.

Patricia Marshall of Leetonia Wins Health Essay Contest

Patricia Marshall of Leetonia Orchard Hill School is the first place winner of the annual Dr. Robert M. Dunlap health essay contest, it was announced today.

Second place went to Sue Ann Dickens of Columbiana High School and third place to Frank Guerrier of Leetonia Orchard Hill School.

The trophy and prizes will be presented to the winners today at the Columbiana County Fair by Mrs. Roy Archibald, a member of the County Board of Health and the chairman of the contest.

The title for the essays this year was "Why We Need a Health Program at Home and at School."

Miss Marshall, 13, is the daughter of Vernon Marshall of RD 1, Leetonia; Miss Dickens, 13, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn C. Dickens of 214 S. Elm St.; and Guerrier, 13, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Guerrier of 634 Columbiana St., Leetonia.

Contest judges were Carl N. Blake of RD 1, Kensington; F. H. Bezdek of Rogers, Mayor Karl Lindner of Salineville, and Mary A. Rumberger, R.N., of Lisbon.

The contest, open to all students in the county general health district, is held in memory of Dr. Dunlap, a former county health commissioner.

First prize is $25; second prize, $15; and third prize, $5. The Dr. Robert M. Dunlap Trophy is awarded to the school winning first prize. The trophy will become the possession of the school winning three years in succession.

The prize winning essay follows: "Why We Need a Health Program at Home and at School."

Today in our homes and other homes throughout Columbiana County health is mostly taken for granted. We know our food is safe to eat, our water is safe to drink, and we are reasonably safe from communicable diseases. But do we know why we are safe? Yes, most of us do. It is because sometime in our lives a health program has been introduced in our community.

A health program is probably being practiced in your home today. Have you ever wondered why you must sterilize a baby's bottle or wash the dishes so carefully? It is because you have been taught that heat kills germs. We keep our homes clean so germs don't spread in the dust and dirt. Garbage is disposed of immediately to prevent bacteria from forming or flies from gathering. But how do we know how to do these things? Because we have been taught the right way and find it more profitable.

We learned most of this at school by examples set by the school and its faculty. Even first graders compete to see who earns the most sticker stars for being clean and neatly groomed. Balanced breakfasts are stressed in all age groups for alert, energetic students. Sanitation is very important in schools where many students are together. Janitors sweep and clean each day. Drinking fountains are located in each hall for our convenience. Our cafeterias serve grade A food and the cooks are qualified in their field. Health programs also encourage physical education and schools furnish showers for all participating students.

Would you know what to do if someone's life depended on your knowledge of first aid? This is also another benefit given in a health program. We need such a program to inform and teach the public the ways to a more prosperous life and better health. An important reminder to remember is, "An informed public is a healthy public." Health programs will be needed forever if we are to maintain our high standards of living.

An open invitation to the Steel Union:

Join us in a forward step

Steel companies are spending billions of dollars to modernize mills, methods and products.

But America, the world's greatest steel user, can never enjoy the full benefits of this multi-billion dollar program until the steel companies' labor agreements are as modern as the machinery in the mills.

The steel companies extend this invitation to the Union:

Join us in taking a forward step to help reduce wasteful, out-of-date practices; help pave the way for increased production, improved productivity, and resulting savings which can be shared by employees, stockholders and the public—without contributing to inflation.

Specifically, we have asked the Union to cooperate with us in:

1. Improving the language and the spirit of the labor agreements to bring them up-to-date with modern operations and to reduce causes of misunderstanding and friction that have developed in the past;
2. Protecting thousands of innocent workers by discouraging irresponsible acts of a lawless few who engage in unauthorized or "wildcat" strikes;
3. Retarding further inflation by dropping the experimental cost-of-living adjustment clause in the 1956 agreements. This clause, intended to spare steelworkers from the effects of inflation, has proven to be itself inflationary and thus self-defeating. All of the 17¢ an hour added to wage rates under the clause since 1956 would be retained.

These contract changes, accompanied by a cooperative attitude on the Union's part, would we believe, pave the way to enable the companies to generate new economic progress to be shared with their employees.

Accordingly, in return for agreement on these contract changes we have offered to negotiate a non-inflationary two-year agreement providing an increase in pension and insurance benefits this year, and a modest increase in wages next year.

Such an agreement would place the steel companies in a stronger position to compete with other materials and with imports of foreign-made steel... It would give employees improved benefits, higher wages and greater job security... It would help hold the line against inflation.

This proposal does not threaten the basic rights of Union members in any way.

The companies recognize that the Union has a responsibility—and a legal right—to represent the interests of its members. The Union, on its part, should recognize that the companies have the right and obligation to manage their plants to the maximum benefit of employees, shareholders, and the public.

In these modern times, with great progress already achieved and even greater progress visible on the horizon, cooperation—not opposition—is the mark of real leadership.

Only with a cooperative attitude on the part of the Union and its leadership can the steel industry fully meet the needs of America and help curb inflation.

We urge the Union to join us in taking this forward step.

Shadow of a Doubt Over Laos

Military gunplay in Laos would be only an encho of unsettled conditions in Southeastern Asia were it not for the suspicion of Russian influence and its possible bearing on the Eisenhower-Khrushchev meetings.

The U.S. Department, replying to a charge by Moscow that the United States has exercised undue influence in Laos, hints that the Soviet Union really is the source of undue influence.

But it will take more than hints to pin down Russian influence, and it will take more than a broadside from Moscow to back up a charge that the United States has been doing anything improper in Laos.

The shadow of a doubt that hovers over the situation is Chinese in its confirmation. Peiping is closer to Laos than Moscow.

The assumption that everything done in the name of the Communist conspiracy anywhere in the world must have been done by Moscow is convenient, but it is not always credible.

Chinese Communists do not always see eye to eye with Russian Communists, just as the free countries of Europe do not always see eye to eye with the United States. They have their differences of opinion.

It might suit the ends of the Chinese Communist at this time to put Premier Khrushchev on the spot for an act of Communist aggression on the eve of his scheduled exchange with President Eisenhower. It might remind the No. 1 Communist of Russia that he is not the No. 1 Communist of China nor the No. 1 Communist of the international Communist conspiracy.

Mao Tse-tung, who has yielded the presidency of the Chinese People's Republic to Liu Shao-chi, may think of himself as an Asiatic Tito—an independent guardian of the creed.

The West is in danger of overestimating the harmony of forces in a part of the world it knows little about. Americans, particularly, always assume there is a plan and a program behind everything done abroad, while their own government fumbles in the dark.

Premier Khrushchev could have ordered faraway Communist minions to attack loyal troops in Laos to show his contempt for the United States and the United Nations. But the Chinese Communists, who are much closer to the scene, could have started trouble in Laos to remind Khrushchev that they, not he, will make the ultimate decisions for the Communist conspiracy.

We'd Like To Make a Suggestion

The U.S. Navy is wondering what to do with nine airplanes of a type that has been discontinued after a 472-million-dollar project failed. All but the last 72 million was spent before it was written off.

The planes, designed as seaplanes powered with jet engines, never panned out. The first models crashed. After redesigning, the planes still were not workable.

Meanwhile, work was proceeding on an 11½-million-dollar base for the planes and a seaplane tender with a price tag of more than a million on it. These facilities also will be junked.

As to what the Navy should do with the unhappy reminder of four-tenths of a billion dollars spent with nothing to show for it but a dent in the taxpaying purse, we'd like to make a suggestion.

The planes should be sent out on tour, one at a time. On each plane should be a large placard stating what it represents—one of a number of multi-million-dollar projects of a magnitude that only the military establishments of the United States would dare to afford.

In this wealthy country, as far as militarism is concerned, nothing is too costly or too ill-advised to try. It might work. And if it fails, no one will suffer but the long-suffering taxpayers, who are used to suffering. No heads will be broken. No one will be busted in rank. There will be no sweaty investigation. No one will be called to account for malfeasance, misfeasance, or nonfeasance as an agent of the sovereign people.

In fact, any taxpayer who dares to wonder whether militarists aren't the greatest spend-thrifts who ever had the run of the U.S. Treasury will be low-bridged as a foreign agent or a domestic malcontent. In the United States, military spending has become sacrosanct. If by some mischance enough pressure is applied to make the military spenders restless, they get revenge by threatening to ground the Strategic Air Command or suspend the nuclear submarine program—and it works! That's how they always get what they want.

Disaster In Yellowstone Playground

It will be weeks and perhaps months before the loss of life in the Yellowstone earthquake disaster can be appraised with accuracy.

The final accounting will be possible only when inquiries have indicated how many missing persons might be found under the hundreds of thousands of tons of debris that filled the valley of the Madison River.

Casualties above ground will be a problem in themselves, because it will be impossible to know how many tourists ultimately are present and accounted for and how many may have been visiting Yellowstone without families or friends who now would be curious about their whereabouts.

When a final estimate has been made, the Yellowstone quake will have proved to be a memorable disaster; the exact total of casualties will not be important. Natural disasters of this kind are rare. They are always memorable.

They are the tidal waves and windstorms—the floods and torrential downpours—the cyclones and heat waves—the blizzards and droughts.

They are the reminders to man that all his ingenuity in creating new and more terrible ways to do hurt to his fellowmen are no match for the potentialities of disaster built into the nature of his existence. Man has no security other than he is granted by the forbearance of the things that could destroy him, including that broad streak of savagery in his own makeup that destroyed millions only a few years ago and today has infinitely more destructive weapons at hand.

Once Over

Russia is adopting time payment plan. This can bring the automobile to millions of Russians and permit the Kremlin to pass the United States in traffic problems, bent fenders and parking ticket disputes. Evidently all those iceboxes, washing machines, etc.—at our Moscow exhibit—had an effect on the Soviet Union.

Until now the Russian people have not been able to buy more than they could afford. (This makes any people irritable, sullen and hard to get along with.) Let the free world pray for success of the "send no money" system in Russia. They will be allowed to go to war when three months behind on the refrigerator, deep freeze, fur coat and TV set.

This can be the forerunner of "No money down," "Just send 25 box tops" and "Be a two-car family" sales pitch, giving Russians that old "I should worry" feeling and lessening tensions.

Moscow insists that steps will be taken to see that people don't get too far out on the limb in installment buying. This will be a good trick. Once the people get a taste of "a little-down-and-the-rest-in-18-months," it's hard to curb them.

Khrushchev may find he is putting Extravagance in orbit. Which can be good for our side. During his visit he should try to sell Khrushchev on giveaway programs, quiz shows, etc.

Perhaps nothing could make Russian people happier than the constant message "You can win this five-million-ruble contest by merely completing the sentence "I like So-and-So's Nonscuff Floor Wax because..."

BELIEVE IT OR NOT a Miss Seafood has been chosen. (Now for a Miss Oyster Crackers and a National Clam Chowder Queen.)

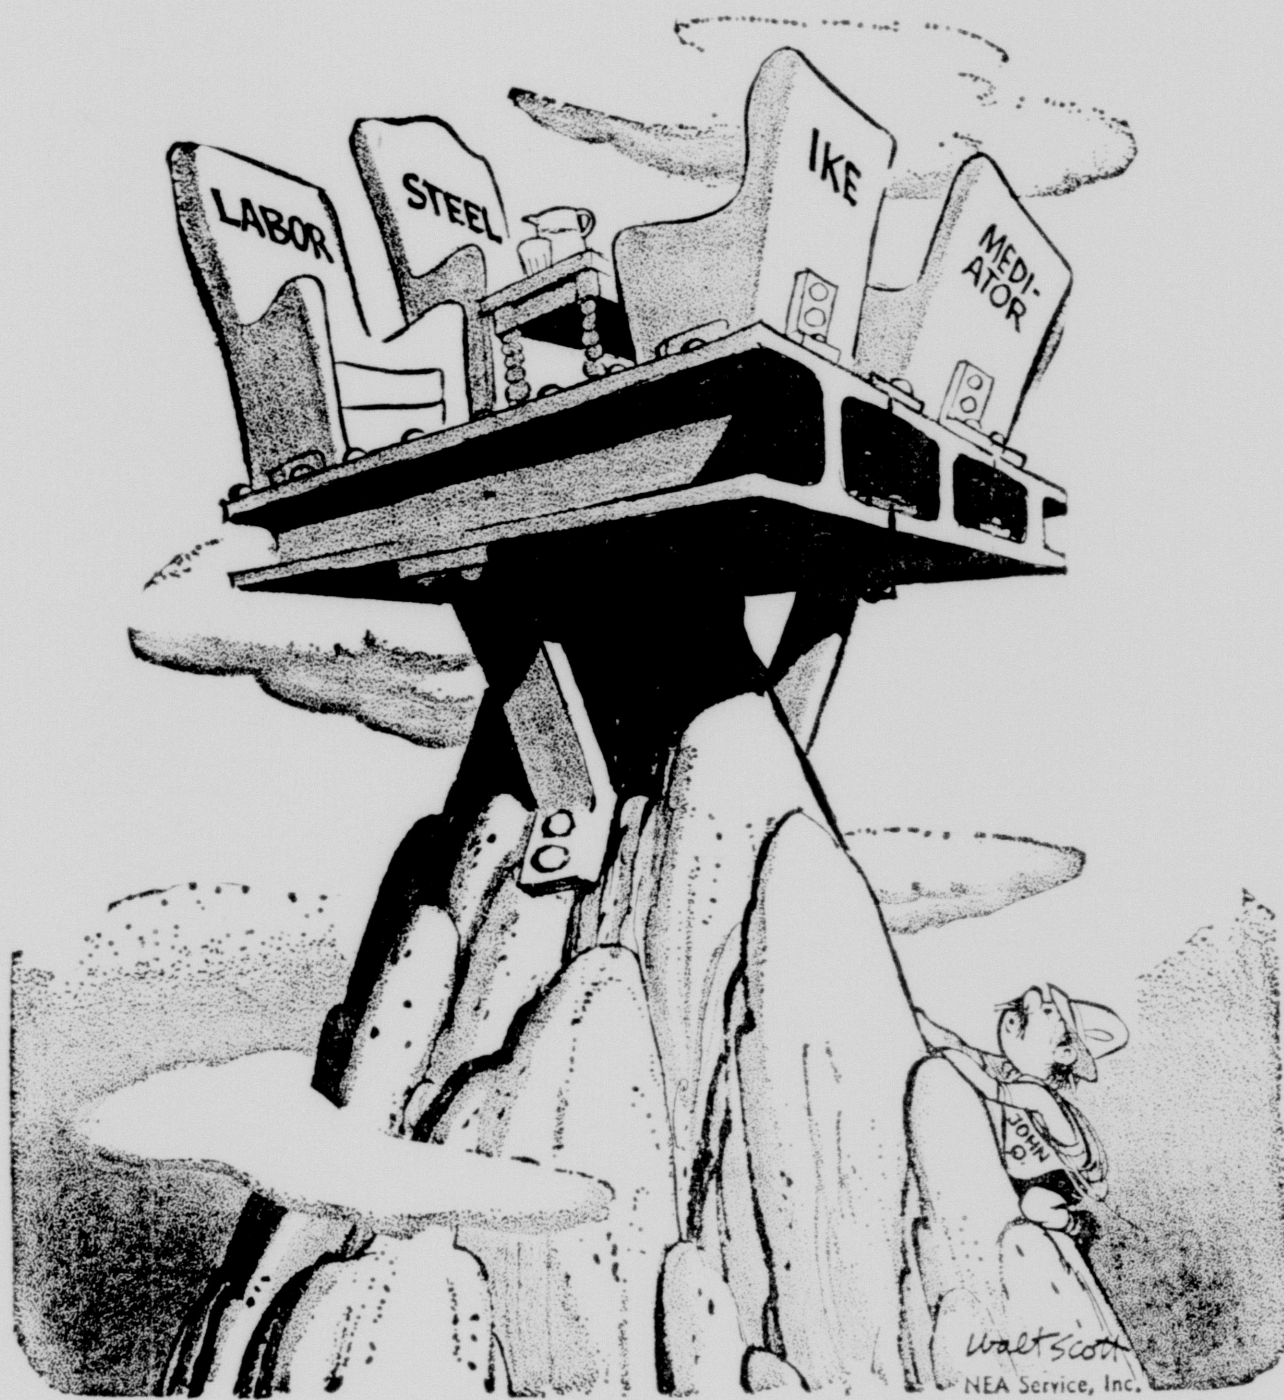

Americans drank less beer last year than at any time since 1942. It may indicate that many beer drinkers are being driven off the product by some of the commercials.

Castro's TV and radio speeches last five or six hours. An airwave station executive can get shot if one of Fidel's talks is interrupted by, "We pause now for an announcement of importance."

Joyce Brothers, who came into fame as Jackpot winner as an expert on prizefights, is now doing two airwave shows on advice to the lovelorn, troubled mates, etc., with extra candid discussion of sex problems. Versatile at the weights, she display the most unorthodox style since "Hurricane" Jackson.

There is such a thing as an international spearfishing championship. It was just won by an American, Terry Litz, off Malta, with man nations competing. He won by spearing 106 pounds of fish at a depth of around 100 feet, which, we suppose, meant a TKO against nearest competitor. Spearfishing is the only sport held under water but, in view of current happenings, it seems to us that prize-fighting and pro wrestling should be conducted the same way.

Threat of the Uncommon Virus

By JERRY BENNETT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The elusive virus that's believed to have killed University of North Carolina football coach Jim Tatum is a tragic reminder that you don't have to live in the tropics or Orient to catch a mysterious disease.

Although viruses are usually associated with the common cold, flu and polio, they also cause scores of less publicized diseases that are painful, long lasting and sometimes fatal.

Scientists have identified about 100 different families of viruses, each made up of several types. Specialists at the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases won't be surprised if they discover many more. They explain that many summer illnesses which are usually blamed on "the bug that's going around" are probably caused by unknown viruses.

Tracking down the sub-microscopic creatures is a long and difficult process. University of North Carolina doctors estimate that it will be weeks before the virus that struck Tatum is identified. It's possible, NIAID specialists say, that they may never identify it.

SOME DOCTORS believe Tatum

may have been the victim of the hepatitis virus that causes the disease of the same name. Infectious hepatitis is an affliction of the liver. Symptoms are usually fever, headache, nausea, fatigue and stomach pains. In extreme cases the skin may turn yellow. The disease—sometimes called "yellow jaundice"—is rarely fatal. But the convalescence period usually lasts for several weeks.

It's believed that the hepatitis virus may be spread through the air. Another means of transmission is through blood transfusions. As is the case with most viral infections, no drug has been developed to treat infectious hepatitis. Best treatment, doctors say, is plenty of bed rest and a nutritious diet.

Another painful culprit is the encephalitis virus which causes sleeping sickness. The most common of these viruses in the U.S. are the Western, Eastern and St. Louis types.

Birds are believed to be one of the carriers. Here's how Dr. John P. Utz, Chief of NIAID's Infectious Disease Service, describes the role of birds in transmitting the bugs:

BIRDS THAT FLY TO Central and South America in the winter are bitten by mosquitoes. These insects are infected with encephalitis viruses and pass them on to the birds. When the birds return home in the spring they bring the viruses with them. U.S. mosquitoes bite the birds, pick up the viruses and transmit them to humans. The virus also has been found in garter snakes.

NIAID specialists explain that sleeping sickness occurs most often in areas with poor sanitary conditions. Like most viral ailments, its prevalence is not restricted to any one section of the country.

Sleeping sickness is a disease of the brain and spinal cord. Symptoms are high fever, tremors, stiff neck and coma. Fatalities may range anywhere from 5 to 60 per cent of the cases during an epidemic. Less severe cases may show symptoms resembling those of polio.

Two other virus families which cause ailments often mistaken for polio are the Cocksackie and ECHO. In fact, the Cocksackie's ability to copy the disease once caused the Russians to announce they had discovered a fourth type of polio virus.

A disease caused by these "bugs" is viral meningitis. Doctors explain that this ailment is not to be confused with the usually fatal bacterial meningitis. Symptoms of the viral are stiff neck, fatigue and headache. The recovery period is usually long.

COSACKIE and ECHO viruses often cause fatalities among children when they inflame the heart muscle. In adults the viruses usually strike the covering of the heart, a less serious affliction. The fever and chest pains that result, however, have caused the ailment to be dubbed "Devil's Grip."

An especially dangerous "bug" is the B-virus. It's commonly known as the monkey virus since it is transmitted to man from that animal. The monkey virus strikes the brain. It has caused several fatalities among medical scientists who use monkeys in their experiments.

Union Leader's Letter to Congress Causes Stir

When the labor union bosses raise money to contribute to the campaigns of members of Congress, do most of those who are elected disregard their personal convictions on the merits of proposed laws and do the bidding of the groups that furnished the funds?

This issue seems to have been projected by James B. Carey, one of the top leaders of the AFL-CIO, whose recent letter to members of Congress has caused a stir. He expresses gratitude to those who voted as labor wanted and wrote in bitter sarcasm to those who, having accepted campaign contributions from labor interests, voted against their wishes on the Landrum-Griffin bill.

Mr. Carey threatens reprisals at the ballot box and apparently the labor unions will withhold contributions next time from those members of Congress who refused to consider a campaign contribution as a bribe.

There is nothing unusual about Mr. Carey's letters to members of Congress.

He should not be criticized as being alone in his viewpoint. What he has written is in line with CIO policy for years. Indeed, John L. Lewis, while active in the CIO, was characteristically frank about the meaning of a contribution from laboring men to the campaigns of candidates for office.

WHEN PRESIDENT Franklin D. Roosevelt, having accepted big contributions from labor unions for his 1936 campaign, said in the midst of a strike in 1937 something that the labor union leaders didn't like, Mr. Lewis declared publicly:

"It ill behooves one who has supped at labor's table and who has been sheltered in labor's house to curse with equal fervor and fine impartiality both labor and its adversaries when they become locked in deadly embrace."

In a biography of Mr. Lewis written by Saul D. Alinsky and published in 1949, the author tells of an interview with the labor leader during the Roosevelt regime. Mr. Lewis is quoted as having said:

"Everybody says I want my pound of flesh, that I gave Mr. Roosevelt $5,000 for his 1936 campaign and I want quid pro quo. The United Mine Workers and the CIO have paid cash on the barrel for every piece of legislation that we have gotten."

"We have the Wagner Act. The Wagner Act cost us many dollars in contributions which the United Mine Workers have made to the Roosevelt administration with the explicit understanding of a quid pro quo for labor."

"The contributions far exceed the notions held by the general public or the press."

"Is anyone fool enough to believe for one instant that we gave this money to Roosevelt because we were spellbound by his voice? It is common knowledge that we spent approximately three quarters of a million dollars in the 1936 campaign. And you might be interested to know that the $500,000 direct contribution wasn't my price, but it was the figure named by the White House and I was given approximately 43 hours to get that money."

"Certainly there was a quid pro quo—the right for labor to organize. But there was more than that."

"The sums we spent in 1936 were not only cash contributions that were made to the Democratic party but also were money expended in terms of salaries for organizers and other personnel who worked full time organizing and electioneering for Roosevelt."

"Radio time purchased, billboards, hand bills, literature and all other paraphernalia that are part and parcel of the process of being elected president of the United States didn't come gratis."

THE SAME INTERVIEW reveals that in 1938 when the tensions between Mr. Lewis and Mr. Roosevelt had eased off somewhat and the Democratic President was trying in primary contests to "purge" certain Southern Democratic senators who happened also to be anti-labor, the United Mine Workers chief rendered a helping hand. Again Mr. Lewis is quoted in the Saul Alinsky book as follows:

"Where did the money come from? I'll tell you where it came from. Right here, from the coffers of the United Mine Workers of America. It came by request of the President of the United States through one of his trusted aides. You tell this to the President, and if he questions it and I'm certain that he will not, you may inform the president that I am perfectly willing to name names and sums, chapter and verse, to satisfy any slight amnesia that there might be on this particular issue."

"You ask me for gratitude in terms of an administration that we have literally poured our life's blood into supporting! You wonder that I do not express the feeling that one should have for a great champion of labor. I say that labor's champion has to a large extent here been a bought and paid for proposition. There is nothing we should be grateful for when we paid cash on the barrel-head at the price demanded for it."

SO THE PHILOSOPHY of the money raisers in labor's ranks hasn't changed much in the last 2 years since John L. Lewis spoke. In the 1958 Congressional campaign when the labor unions boasted that a majority of the House of Representatives was elected through their help, the federal records show a relatively small sum was contributed.

Big amounts were, however, donated largely to state organizations which do not come under the federal laws requiring the reporting of contributions.

It is estimated that labor raised approximately 10 million dollars. Much of it was spent to uphold laws compelling workers to forego their civil rights and join unions.

New York Herald-Tribune

Purely Personal

By TRUMAN TWILL

After reading what goes on in New York City routinely, I think the saying should be changed like this: "I think it's a safe place to visit, but I wouldn't risk living there."

There is only one phrase to describe the situation in a sovereign state whose decent citizens are being manhandled by a political mob yapping at the heels of a governor whose mental mixup is palpable. The phrase is "political obscenity."

Is it Secretary of State Herter's unusual height that makes it impossible for cameramen to get a decent picture of his face when he is making public statements?

One of the more amusing categories of conversation is to think of things that once were sensation and gripping which today would be considered either naive or downright funny, such as "human fly" exhibitions and balloon ascensions.

The way quince bushes grow is reminiscent of the gnarled and twisted appearance of those dwarf trees the clever little Japanese grow in their incredible little miniature gardens for their own small delight.

Whenever I pass a schoolhouse at this time of the year, I marvel at the efficient manner in which all those kids, teachers, rolling equipment and supplies will be rounded up for the beginning of school after Labor Day. Nowhere else does such a massive project get under way so smoothly.

A national dope-piece magazine has come out with the information that the auto industry's new light cars will be bought by the same kind of reasonably well-to-do people who bought the old heavy ones. I cannot figure out what is unusual about this. What other kind of people could buy new cars?

In preparation for my annual game of horseshoes, which will be played sometime during the forthcoming family reunion, I wanted to mow a strip of grass in the meadow and was so carried away by the neat effect that I mowed an acre, which is about the cleared space I need when I throw a horseshoe.

I refuse to play the game called "What To Show Khrushchev." My notion of the way to do it would be to let the real Khrushchev see what he wanted to see while a stand-in looked at all the setups our eye-poppers are lining up to bowl over the skeptical Premier of the Soviet Union.

Court Hears Motions On Civil Suits

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Motions to dismiss civil suits charging 35 persons with defrauding the Columbus Rexall Oil Co. and stockholders of $12,589,024 are scheduled to be heard in U.S. District Court here Sept. 8 and Sept. 21.

Stephen J. Dinneen, former company secretary who is a defendant, said in New York Monday: "As far as I'm concerned, the charges are untrue and without basis."

Another defendant, Air Force Maj. Gen. Ralph Royce (ret.), said in Honolulu, where he is vacationing, that he had accepted the position as board chairman in 1957 but resigned before doing any work as chairman.

"I tried but could not get the directors to meet and got no co-operation, so I just resigned," said Royce, who was deputy commander of the Allied air force after the World War II landings in France.

New York's former official greeter, Grover Whalen, also is a defendant. Whalen was reported to be ill and not available for comment.

A Salt Lake City attorney, David Clegg, filed the complaints as receiver for Columbus Rexall. The charges contend some defendants defrauded stockholders by transferring stock to other corporations and then to themselves. Other defendants are charged with knowing of illegal transfers of stock and willingly making money from them.

OHIO in the CIVIL WAR

The Great Locomotive Chase

The "Great Train Theft" of Civil War fame, that was the subject of a popular movie, had a strong Ohio angle, even though the action took place in Georgia in 1862.

Major General Ormsby M. Mitchel of Cincinnati, as commander of a Union division of Maj. General Don Carlos Buell (another Ohio General) in middle Tennessee, launched the expedition made up of 30 volunteers from three Ohio regiments, the 2nd, 21st and 33rd.

The objective was to capture a train deep in Confederate territory and to burn bridges on the Georgia State Railroad and the East Tennessee Railroad, the lifelines of the Confederacy in the West, to isolate Chattanooga. The expedition, headed by James J. Andrews, assembled at Marietta, Ga. April 1862, captured a train under the noses of a Confederate encampment and stepped northward. Quick and persistent pursuit defeated the purpose but the chase extended to within eighteen miles of Chattanooga.

All but two of the raiders were captured, seven were executed as spies but the others survived. Six of these Ohio soldiers, after being released from a Confederate prison, were presented with the Congressional Medal of Honor by fellow Ohioans, Secretary of War, Edwin M. Stanton, March 25, 1863. These six were the first ever to receive this nation's highest award.

General Mitchel spent his boyhood in Lebanon, Ohio. He walked a large part of the way from there to West Point to enter the U.S. Military Academy as the youngest in his class, arriving there with 25c in his pocket. After four years of military service, he practiced law in Cincinnati and was a professor at the College of Cincinnati up to the start of the Civil War.

Rumors, Denials Buz Around Maine Resort

SEAL HARBOR, Maine (AP) — Rumors—and the denials that followed them — buzzed around this fashionable resort today far up on Maine's rocky shore.

The big question was whether Steven Rockefeller and his Norwegian bride Anne Marie would arrive here for their honeymoon.

For that matter, had they already arrived?

A spokesman at the huge estate of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said no, the honeymooners were not here, and no arrangements were being made for their arrival.

The rumors gained quick currency Monday night when a private plane landed in Bar Harbor, and an airport source said, "It carried the Rockefeller party."

But the source added that he paid little attention to the plane and couldn't say whether Steven and Anne Marie were aboard.

"The Rockefellers," the source said, "are always coming and going from our airport and we don't bother them."

Nixon Backs Visits At Legion Convention

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon says he will carry his support of President Eisenhower's invitation to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev "head on" to American Legion Convention delegates today.

Nixon said at a news conference Monday night he is for the Soviet Premier's visit with Eisenhower because "Khrushchev is the man to see" to discuss differences between the two countries.

The vice president added that a face-to-face meeting was far better than the customary exchange of notes. He explained that, although other leading Soviet officials have visited this country, they have no power to make decisions.

Many Legion delegates in pre-convention meetings have expressed opposition to Khrushchev's visit next month.

Mississippi Chooses 52nd Governor Today

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi will choose its 52nd governor today in what political observers expect to be a tightly contested Democratic runoff primary.

Lt. Gov. Carroll Gartin, who has served two successive terms, predicted he would sweep 50 to 55 of the state's 82 counties.

Ross Barnett, successful Jackson claims attorney making his third straight gubernatorial try, said he would take 60 counties.

Top vote in the primary amounts to election in this solidly Democratic state. The Republican party is not running a candidate. The winner will take office Jan. 19.

Gov. J. P. Coleman, prevented by law from succeeding himself, won the primary election for state representative from Choctaw County, his home county. He threw his support behind Gartin.

Gartin, 47, has campaigned on a platform of experience and on the administration's record of industrial development and school segregation.

Barnett, 61, has promised retroactive teachers pay, proclaimed himself an aggressive fighter for segregation, and charged Gartin was part of Coleman's political machine and labor's picked candidate.

15 Hurt As Train Derails at Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Fifteen persons were injured Monday when seven cars of a nine-car Baltimore & Ohio passenger train derailed in suburban Perrysburg. None was hurt seriously.

The diner, last car on the train, was tilted at a 45-degree angle and rescue workers broke open the car to let the occupants out. Two other cars also were tilted but none went over completely.

About 200 passengers were aboard the train, the Cincinnati Enquirer reported. They were taken to Toledo by bus.

W. F. Fisher, the engineer, said the derailment might have been caused when a brakeman pulled the emergency cord after hearing a thumping noise while he was in the club car.

Family Budget Still Biggest Worry

It's Your Pocketbook

By FAYE HENLE
(NEA Staff Writer)

Want to know what is worrying your neighbor?

I've sorted the masses of letters I've received during just the past four weeks. A host of problems are aired, but here are two of the most frequently recurring, along with answers I trust that will be helpful.

Biggest headache of 'em all is the family budget. The statistics that float across my desk prove three things. Personal income is the highest ever. At an annual rate of 376.4 billion dollars during the first six months of this year, it showed a 4 per cent per capita gain over the similar 1958 period. Savings banks deposits, compared with a year ago, are dropping. The cost of living is still rising.

Under such circumstances, how are you going to balance the bill? I'll wager that you ask keep

GO BACK OVER your spending during the past several months. See how much of it for which you can account. If you discover a sizeable sum that you have no idea how you spent, do this:

Write down what you expect your income will be for the balance of the year. Under this figure list your fixed expenses — housing, debts you'll have to meet such as insurance premiums, charges for items bought with credit. Estimate how much you'll need for food, clothing, medical expenses, education, recreation, etc. Total these figures and subtract from what you expect to earn. This should give you a good idea of where you stand.

The way bankers figure it, reckoning today's high living costs, you should be saving 10 to 15 per cent of your income, spending 15 to 30 per cent for housing, 15 to 40 per cent for food, 10 to 18 per cent for clothing, 9 to 1 per cent for transportation.

Next most frequently asked in my mail: I'm a novice, but I'd like to invest. Who can help me? The logical place to turn is to your banker. Explain that you've so many dollars that you want to invest. Be specific about what you want your investments to do for you.

PERHAPS YOU'RE building toward retirement and are satisfied as anyone can be with your present income. In that case you'll want stocks that will gain in value in the future and you'll be less interested in the current return. Or you may wish to augment your current income. In that case you'll want issues that offer as handsome a return as possible all the while guarding your capital. Or you may be in the mood for a flyer.

Depending upon the amount of money you have to invest and the results you seek, your banker will guide you. He may offer you the services of his bank, if his is a commercial bank or trust company, or he may suggest you go see a stockbroker. In that case, feel free to ask for a recommendation. He will probably suggest several different firms, if there is a choice in your locale.

As in every profession, there are good, mediocre and poor stockbrokers. Also, you will discover that your personality might mesh with one broker, clash with another.

Speak with your prospective stockbroker at length. If he is eager to know your total financial picture so that he can plan an investment program tailored to your needs, he is the man for you. If his attitude is a disinterested one here are a couple of suggestions, take 'em or leave 'em — leave him. You are the boss, he is selling a service and you should deal only with someone in whom you can have confidence. Be selective.

Steven Wald of 999 Franklin Ave. has been named to the dean's honor list for the year at the Cornell University College of Engineering.

Miss Alice Juanita Armstrong Wed to Howard L. Scarlott

Miss Alice Juanita Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Armstrong of RD 4, Lisbon, and Howard L. Scarlott, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Scarlott of Mechanicstown, were united in marriage Aug. 15 in the First Christian Church in Lisbon.

The couple exchanged their vows before an altar banked with palms and ferns, with large bouquets of white gladioli and pompons. The Rev. William Spangler officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Roy J. Welch presided at the organ and accompanied Mrs. Thelma Ellis of Lisbon who sang "O Promise Me," "Always" and "Because."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle over satin. The bodice featured a scalloped neckline, accented with opalescent sequins, and long sleeves tapered over her hands. The princess style torso swept from the waist into a chapel train, while the front panel featured small butterfly appliques covered with sequins.

A Juliet cap, edged in seed pearls and sequins, held her veil of imported silk illusion. She carried a white Bible overlaid with a white orchid and lilies of the valley. Attending her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. Raymond Guess of Mechanicstown. She was attired in a waltz-length gown of yellow lace and net over taffeta, styled with a sweetheart neckline with a net stole. The back of the bouffant skirt was designed with tiers of net and a large bustle bow. A yellow and white bandeau held her circular veil, and she carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Norma Jean Armstrong of Lisbon, sister of the bride, Mrs. Glen Feezle of Chester, W. Va., and Miss Patricia Snowe of Akron. They wore identical waltz-length gowns of nylon lace over taffeta in ice blue, pale pink and mint green, respectively. Their headbands of ruffled ribbon and tulle and their colonial bouquets matched their gowns.

Raymond Guess of Mechanicstown, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man. The ushers were Harold Bates of Minerva, Ralph Armstrong of Lisbon and Glen Feezle of Chester, W. Va.

The bride's mother selected a dress of rose-colored lace with beige accessories and a corage of pink rosebuds.

Approximately 150 guests attended the reception in the church social room. The bride's table was laid with a white linen cloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. Vases of pink roses and gladioli completed the table decorations.

Miss Joanne Parrish registered the guests from Alliance, Akron, Carrollton, East Palestine, Toledo, Mechanicstown, Minerva, Massillon, Chester, W. Va., Kankakee, Ill., and Little Rock, Ark.

The hostesses were Mrs. Charles Carlisle, Mrs. Fred Bowman, Mrs. Cecil Barnard and Mrs. Lawrence Snowe.

A 1957 graduate of David Anderson High School in Lisbon, the bride was employed by the Gerber Manufacturing Co. Her husband graduated from Carrollton High School in 1953 and is employed by the Minerva Spring and Wire Co.

Following a brief honeymoon, the couple will reside in Mechanicstown.

Questions and Answers

I have put off as long as I could answering questions on scleroderma in the hope that something would be discovered which would permit a better answer.

Q—About two years ago, I was told that I had scleroderma and would have to keep doctoring for it. Would you discuss it?—Mrs. E.L.C.

A—This is a challenging disease, the cause of which is not known. Two principal varieties are recognized, one being a localized thickening of the skin (often in patches), and the other a generalized type. In the latter some pain and stiffness of the joints and muscles is common and there may be some changes in some of the other tissues and organs. Although there has been much study of this disease, a satisfactory and specific treatment has yet to be developed. The different symptoms can be treated in a number of ways with moderate success over a long period of time.

Q—My 12-year-old daughter is supposed to have a horseshoe kidney. Would you discuss this subject?—Mrs. K.

A—This is what is called an anomaly of the kidney resulting from faulty development before birth. It receives its name because the two kidneys, instead of being completely separated, are joined at the lower or upper ends. This type of kidney may give no symptoms whatever, or it can cause abdominal pains. There is often increased susceptibility to infections. Sometimes dividing the two kidneys where they are joined may give relief from abdominal pain; plastic operations have been used occasionally. Modern urinary antiseptics have somewhat improved the outlook if infection should occur.

Q—Is there any help for peripheral vascular disease? My legs give me a great deal of discomfort, and as the day progresses the feet and knees swell.—C.T.

A—Peripheral vascular disease is sort of a general name for several disorders of the blood vessels in the legs or arms. The fact that your feet and knees swell is probably related to the blood vessel disorder; the first problem is to find out exactly what kind of difficulty is present, since the treatment will depend on the nature of the disorder.

Q—What causes the knee joints to make a cracking sound when one bends down?—Ms. F.

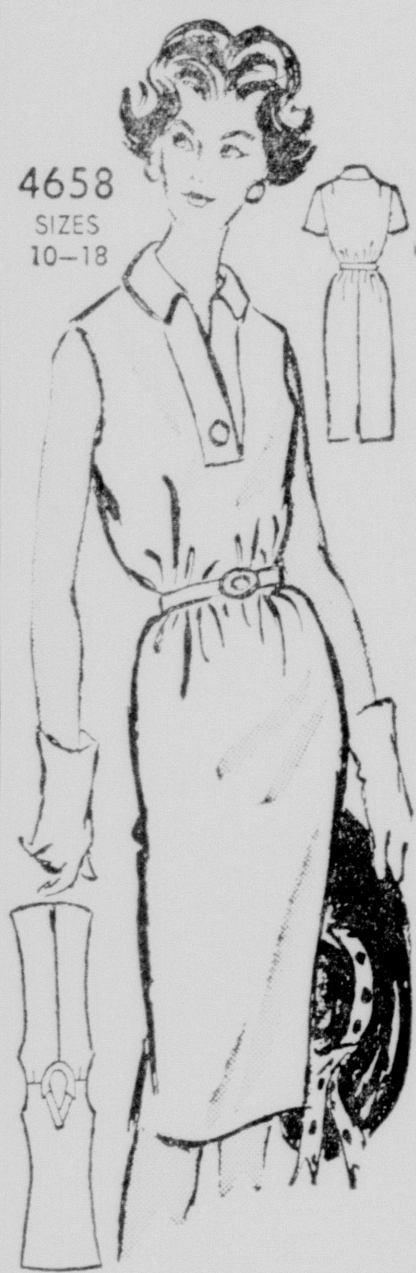

A—The most common snapping or cracking sound is a result of tendons or ligaments slipping across cartilages. However, sometimes cracking can be the result of degenerative joint disease in which there has been some damage done to the cartilage and an increase in the amount of bony tissue around the joint. The former, of course, does not require treatment.

Unwanted Remarks

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Husbandly remarks that wives get tired of hearing—or overhearing—
 "I'd like you to meet my wife. She's the one standing by that pretty girl."
 "Meat loaf? Why, that's what I had for lunch."

Social Security Taxes Withheld on $4,800 This Year

This year social security taxes will be withheld on more of your earnings, according to William J. McCauley, manager of the Youngstown social security office.

Last year only the first $4,200 of earnings was covered by social security and subject to the social security tax. In the 1958 amendments Congress increased the earnings base to $4,800 in order to reflect the increase in the level of wages.

"If you are an employer you should make sure that your employees keep on withholding your social security taxes until you have been paid $4,800, the maximum creditable toward social security benefits," Mr. McCauley said.

This is the time of year that many employees start reaching the $4,200 to $4,800 level, and some employers might not be aware of the change. If an employer doesn't get credit for all his earnings, up to the maximum of $4,800, his benefits will be correspondingly less.

The increase in earnings base means an increase in benefits. "You'll pay more and you'll get more." The top retirement benefit payable on average earnings of $4,200 ($350 a month) is $118. Workers who retire in the future may qualify for the eventual maximum benefit of $127 a month based on average earnings of $4,800 a year ($400 a month). For further information contact the social security office at 123 W. Commerce Street, Youngstown, Ohio.

TWO MILLION MILES—Bus driver John M. Ritter, 54, Tampa, Fla., has driven 2,060,000 miles without a chargeable accident. A senior driver for the Tamiami Trailways where he has worked since 1927, Ritter has driven only buses and has seldom traveled outside Florida. He has had several autos hit his bus, but none have been serious accidents. The miles he has driven would circle the globe about 82 times.

"If you want it fixed, fix it yourself."
 "Hurry up. We're late already."
 "Where are my cuff links?" They were here just a minute ago.

"Wake up. The baby's crying. While you're up you better close the windows. It's been raining for an hour."

"Well, who took out the garbage before you met me?"
 "Oh, no, don't tell me that's a hat! Not that!"

"Good morning, Mrs. Dracula. Have a tough night?"

"Surely one of those cook books ought to tell you how to make a decent cup of coffee."

"Today, instead of going back to bed after I leave, why don't you—"

"Worn out? How can you be all worn out when you got a house full of gadgets to do all the work?"

"Belt him yourself if he needs it. He already thinks I'm the chief executioner."

"When I come home at night, all I want is some peace and quiet. Is that too much to ask?"

"Remember, Harry, when she opens the door, it was your idea that we stop off for a couple on the way."

"Do you think money grows on trees?"

"Just tell me where the needle and thread are. I'll sew it on myself."

"Wonder where I'd be today if I hadn't got married?"

"The boss (fired me two tickets, but I told him, 'No, give em to someone else. We already had a night out this morning.'"

"My mother raised six kids, did her own washing and ironing, and I never heard her complain in her life."

"The old timers were right. A woman never really appreciates you unless you beat her now and then."

"Let's get one thing straight. You run the house. I'll run the office."

"Well, just what did you expect—one long sweet honeymoon?"

"Baby, to cook a three-minute egg all you have to be able to do is to tell time."

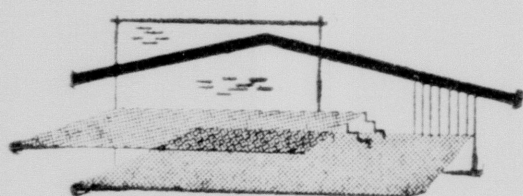

"What do you mean I never talk to you anymore? I talk to you during the TV commercials, don't I?"

"The trouble with you wives is—you never had to meet a payroll."

"Sure I heard you. What did you say?"

Gasoline Tax Boost Sought

WASHINGTON (AP)—The heat was on the powerful House Ways and Means Committee today to approve a compromise 1-cent-a-gallon boost in the federal gasoline tax for one year.

The pressure came from Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.), and he was applying it to for a deadlock in the waning session over financing the interstate highway program, now in the red.

At his insistence, the House Ways and Means Committee meets today to reconsider a plan it had approved earlier. This plan, which would boost the present 3-cent tax a penny a gallon for 22 months, has run into strong opposition in the House. Rayburn proposed cutting the period to 12 months.

Both the original committee plan and the Rayburn compromise differ from the request of President Eisenhower. He had asked Congress to raise the tax 1 1/2 cents a gallon for five years.

Since the penny increase would bring in half a billion dollars a year or less revenue than the proposal of the President, both the Rayburn and committee plans would make this up by taking 800 million dollars a year from the government's general revenues.

This would begin in 22 months under the original committee proposal and in 12 months under the Rayburn compromise.

Unless Congress agrees on ways to get the program out of the red for the next few years, construction on the 41,000-mile interstate network will soon come to a halt.

Steel Strike In 43rd Day

NEW YORK (AP)—The nationwide steel strike will be 43 days old Wednesday, which will make it the second longest steel strike since the end of World War II.

And there's no settlement in sight.

Negotiations continue today. Steelworkers' Union President David J. McDonald is expected to rejoin the talks Wednesday after an absence of two weeks. He stepped out to emphasize the lack of progress.

There was no sign of further action by the White House, after the release last week of a fact-finding report—without comment or conclusion—by Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell.

Both sides claimed the facts backed their positions.

President Eisenhower is understood to be reluctant to interfere with the process of collective bargaining.

The union has demanded a 15-cent hourly package increase for each year of a new contract. The company has refused to agree to any increase in labor costs, claiming that they would force a price increase in steel and thus contribute to inflation. Steelworkers averaged $3.11 an hour just before the strike.

The strike has idled half a million steelworkers and shut down almost 90 per cent of the nation's steelmaking capacity. Another 150,000 workers in allied fields are out of work as a result of the strike.

Since World War II there have been six work stoppages in steel. The longest, in 1952, was for 59 days. The second longest, in 1949, was for 42 days. The longest steel strike on record was in 1909, for 14 months.

'Be Careful In Salem Area,' Magazine Warns

Salem is gaining fame through-out the country — or would it be called notoriety.

A brief item in this week's issue of a national magazine, The New Yorker, warns its vacationing readers to be careful if they find themselves in the vicinity of Salem.

The article relates the story of a Massachusetts woman who recently mailed a letter to Mrs. J. Burchfield Cartwright of East Liverpool. When the letter reached Mrs. Cartwright, the item said, "the envelope was slightly mangled around the edges and badly soiled." It's face had been stamped "Run Over by Train at Salem, Ohio."

"We don't know precisely what's going on out there," the article said of Salem.

Beloit Takes 2nd Straight Game From Shaffer Ford 16-5

Advances Into Class AA Finals

Mark's, Stepanic's Also Win Contests

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

Beloit won its second straight game over Shaffer Ford 16-5 Monday night at Kelley Park to advance into the final round of the Class AA Shaughnessy playoffs.

SAIDC, first place finisher in regular season's play, was shut out 2-0 by third place Stepanic's in their first game of a best-of-three series. In Class A, Mark's Landing evened its championship series with Lincoln Machine at one game apiece with a 4-0 whitewash job.

Mark's and Lincoln will settle the Class A playoff title in a decisive third game at 9:15 tonight. Stepanic's could move into the finals of the AA playoffs with Beloit by dropping SAIDC again tonight at 7:45.

THE ONCE TIGHT Shaffer defense, which in recent games started falling apart, popped its seams last night to let 11 errors out of the bag while Beloit runners circled the bases.

The hard hitting and speedy Beloit nine clubbed out 10 hits and piled up a 12-0 lead before Shaffer broke into the scoring column with a run in the fifth.

The incomparable Glenn Mercer, who sat out two state tournament games in Clyde over the weekend due to an ankle sprain, was back in form last night, hurling a four-hit shutout against SAIDC.

Bill Herman gave Stepanic's just three hits but two of them came in the first inning when the winners tallied both their runs. The SAIDC also selected the first inning to make their only two errors of the game and both figured in the scoring.

Ed Stefani led off the inning with a single and came home on the first error. The second hitter, Woods, also singled and crossed the plate on another error.

HOME RUN HITTING Hal King of Mark's clubbed one of his specialties in the first inning to give Pitcher John Clendenning the only run he needed to defeat Lincoln. There was one man on when the clean-up hitter unloaded his lumber.

Mark's got two insurance markers in the sixth when McDivitt singled home Cannon who had walked and King who had singled. Clendenning kept the Lincoln bats silent most of the night, being touched for just three hits.

Lincoln played without the services of clutch-hitting Frank Laney who was hospitalized with an injured Achilles tendon suffered during Saturday's opening playoff game with Mark's.

Sports Glances

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

Ohio high schools couldn't have chosen a hotter week to open football drills. The fact that 69 of the 70 boys who opened practice here Thursday are still with the squad is a sign that this crew wants to play football.

Usually the toll for the first few days is greater, even under less torturous weather conditions.

Tom Marech, the huge junior lineman from Michigan has dropped off the team. He showed up for both practice sessions Thursday and one Friday but has not been back since.

In the day and a half he worked out, the big tackle prospect brought his weight down to just under 300 pounds before calling it quits. The school hurriedly canceled a $100 order for a specially made uniform for the boy.

COACH EARLE BRUCE and his staff are conducting three practice sessions a day this week. The entire squad meets at 8 a.m. to talk over plays before taking the field from 9 to 11 for drills. The sophomores report back at 3 p.m. to review the morning's exercises.

The evening session gets underway at 5 p.m., with the players actually in the field from 6 to 8. The morning sessions are held at Centennial Park to help preserve some of the grass at Reilly. The afternoon and evening drills are held on the Reilly practice field.

Morning drills usually are given to offensive work and the evening session to defense and punting. Most of the work so far has dealt with fundamentals such as tackling, blocking and stance.

Incidentally, that afternoon session with the sophomores was not in Bruce's original plans. The class in general has been found lacking in the knowledge of fundamentals.

The coaches are concerned over the fact that this squad does not appear to be in as good shape physically at this stage of practice as previous Bruce-coached teams.

Bruce said he would be more concerned if he didn't have an extra week of practice this year.

The coach was quick to point out that several of the players did report in excellent condition. The team in general though looks a little sluggish.

HARDEST WORKER in camp so far is Coach Bruce himself. He is the "this is the way it should be done" type coach and he doesn't spend much time under the shade trees. Neither do his players.

The Quakers have their first scrimmage scheduled here at 10 a.m. Wednesday morning with Youngstown Rayen. Woodrow Wilson of Youngstown will go against Salem Saturday at a site yet to be selected.

Bruce has added some new plays which will be run off a winged-T. Mixed in with the split-T, the new plays should give the Quakers a more varied offense than was shown here last season.

Although the stop watch hasn't been put on any of the players yet, the coaches have their nomination for the fastest man on the squad. He's end Charles Horn.

Friend Wins Third In Row

Pirates Turn Back San Francisco 6-0

By The Associated Press
Maybe those Pittsburgh Pirates aren't dead after all.

Sure, they're still fourth, seven games shy of first in the National League race, but Bob Friend, the ashen ace, is back in business and the Bucs are blowin' up a storm.

They've lost only 5 of 20 since shelving a 1-12 skid, and they've won 11 of their last 13.

After taking three of four from both Los Angeles and Milwaukee, the Pirates made it four straight Monday night, knocking off first-place San Francisco. Friend gave up a dozen hits but won his third in a row with a 6-0 decision over the Giants in the opener of a three-game series.

That ended the Giants' streak at four and trimmed their lead to 3½ games over Los Angeles. The Dodgers regained second place with an 8-2 breeze against last-place Philadelphia while the Chicago Cubs beat Milwaukee 3-0 behind Bob Anderson's six-hit pitching, slipping the Braves to third.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox padded their lead to two games over idle Cleveland with a 4-2 victory over New York. Baltimore blasted the Detroit Tigers 11-0.

The Pirates got to right-hander Sam Jones (16-12) for eight of their 13 hits and the first of Rocky Nelson's two home runs for a quick 3-0 lead. A double by Don Hoak and a single by Bill Virdon scored one in the second and Nelson then swatted a two-run homer in the third.

Rocky's other home run, his fifth, was off Bud Byerly, fourth Giant pitcher.

Gil Hodges drove in five runs for the Dodgers, singling home a pair in a four-run first inning and then counting three in the second with his 20th home run. Norm Larker also homered for the Dodgers, combining with Hodges for five of their nine hits.

Southpaw Sandy Koufax (7-4) checked the Phillies on four hits.

Young Bob Anderson (11-8) gained his first major league shutout for the Cubs. He walked one and struck out five while beating Lew Burdette (17-13) for his fourth straight success.

The Cubs got six of their seven hits during Burdette's eight innings, scoring in the first on a walk, Jim Marshall's single and an error, and making it 2-0 on Tony Taylor's third. Their other run came in the eighth on singles by Cal gnee-man and George Altman.

HELD FOR QUESTIONING

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—William Armstrong, 33, is being held for questioning after police said he fatally shot his wife, Cleo, 33, at their home here Monday. Armstrong said his revolver, which he was about to clean, slipped and discharged accidentally as he held it in his perspiring hand. The couple's 5-year-old daughter, Patricia, told police her parents had been arguing.

Browns, 49ers Meet Sunday

Cleveland Mentor Makes Two Changes

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Rookie

Dick Schafrath of Ohio State, injured in the College All-Star game more than 10 days ago, took his first workout with the Cleveland Browns Monday.

Schafrath has a special problem to overcome in his bid to make the team.

Coach Paul Brown permits no water on the field during practice in games. Schafrath perspires freely and becomes dehydrated quickly. He was near exhaustion after Monday's long workout.

Other than that, Schafrath, who worked out at defensive end, appears to have the size and desire for the job. He checked in at 230 pounds.

Following Saturday night's 9-3 exhibition loss to the Detroit Lions at Akron—a game Brown called "our poorest presentation ever"—the coach made two changes.

Preston Carpenter was switched from halfback to the slot end. He'll play on the opposite side from pass-catching end Billy Howton. Bob Gain, used as a defensive tackle, moves over to left end on the defensive team.

Brown explained he was changing Carpenter back to the position he played the last two seasons because "he's too good a football player not to be used regular."

"Bobby Mitchell is our best long-shot running threat so Preston would be playing behind him."

Brown explained, "Carpenter's a fellow who gets better when the whistle blows. We also found we need experience at the slot end. He has the know-how."

A strong, aggressive player like Gain is needed at defensive end, Brown said. "Many teams have strong running attacks to that side. Bob has played the position before but never really had time to become accustomed to it," the coach said.

The Browns pared their squad by one player Monday—asking waivers on Jack Stilwell, rookie end from Northwestern.

The Browns go to San Francisco for an exhibition against the 49ers Sunday.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT—Children in 60,000 of the nation's 106,000 public schools ate up a whopping half-billion dollars (wholesale value) in food between July, 1957, and June, 1958. The average came to $28 for each child. So says the Agricultural Marketing Service, after a survey of those schools offering a food service. About 505 million dollars was purchased from local sources. The rest was donated by the federal government, either from purchases for the National School Lunch Program, or from surplus stocks. Children's payments made up over half the cost of the program.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

UNITY HOUSE, PA. There are still some two-cent elgian Congo francs in my bush pocket and I'll blow the whole lot on a wager that Walter Reuther and his ebullient buddy, Jim Carey, will be guiding Nikita Khrushchev around for half a day or so next month. The day is expected to be topped with a small banquet at which Reuther, Khrushchev and Carey will be seated together at the head table.

This isn't going to awaken any gay emotion inside the tensely dedicated national labor chief, George Meany.

He and Reuther quietly told each other off in a closed foreign policy session of the AFL-CIO's high command the other afternoon here in labor's own mountain top holiday inn.

Reuther and Carey wanted the right to make their own decisions on how to greet the No. 1 Russian tourist. They've won that right.

AND THE PREDICTION is that some time on the afternoon of Sept. 22 or 23, Reuther will leave the AFL-CIO convention in San Francisco and meet the Khrushchev party.

The red-haired United Auto Workers Union president then is expected to show the Soviet chief through a UAW housing project—including a kitchen.

Reuther's argument was that he could do what Vice President Nixon did. That is out talk the Russian leader in the presence of 150 newsmen, not to mention the global television crews.

There was considerable heat behind the closed doors of the air-conditioned conference room here when Meany told Reuther he could do as he wished—but that the AFL-CIO officially would have nothing to do with a system which, even within the past 24 hours, had executed labor leaders.

Reuther was supported by Carey, who has been saying here quite openly that it would be "reason" to permit President Eisenhower to be the only one to tell the American story to Khrushchev. And that a mild version of Carey's references to the President.

During the off-the-record session, Reuther and Carey maintained that the real truth about America could not come from the President and official White House and State Department hosts—but from the labor leaders themselves.

Reuther's position was that First Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan had come here searching for the truth. Mikoyan's version didn't quite sit well back home. So the Kremlin sent its No. 2 man, Frol Koslov. This wasn't enough. Truth-seeker Khrushchev then decided to seek for himself. Reuther said this would lead to peace. The argument started.

THE ORIGINAL public statement of the AFL-CIO included a short paragraph stating that peace and good will would not be served by Khrushchev's visit. Reuther objected. The few sentences came out. But Meany said, "You wait and see."

Behind all this, a private debate, was a series of telephone calls from the State Department seeking labor sentiment on the visit of the Soviet leader.

Apparently there was another important factor during these talks. Someone in the government wants to know how the AFL-CIO would react to an invitation from the President for labor representation in the Eisenhower delegation to Moscow.

This is a vital question. Virtually all labor leaders abroad purr gently when stroked by the soft diplomatic hands of Soviet envoys.

Toughest opposition to global Kremlin soft-sell politics comes from the band of men led by George Meany. President Eisenhower would very much like to round out his party with two (but at least one) prominent labor chiefs.

Vice President Nixon tried this when he asked Steelworkers' leader Dave McDonald, to join him on the Moscow trek. But official AFL-CIO policy, it appears, is opposed to joining with Mr. Eisenhower despite the respect for any White House request.

However, it is believed that Reuther and Carey would be in that delegation. They feel they can tell their version effectively in Moscow.

Meany will not collaborate with those he privately refers to as butchers of working people.

FUELING THE ANGER between Reuther and Meany is still another feud of considerable significance. Reuther believes it was his turn to be appointed by the State Department to the U.S. delegation to the U.N. This is a worldwide platform. It was held first by Meany and then by Railway Clerks President George Harrison.

Each year a different labor leader is appointed—after unofficial consultation with the AFL-CIO chief.

As former head of the CIO, it appeared to be Reuther's turn. Someone inside labor vetoed him. The post now is scheduled to go to another, passing over Reuther for the third time.

So it is not surprising that Reuther will pass over official labor policy and try to do a Dick Nixon with Khrushchev.

Thus the Reuther-Meany feud still runs deep. Only if you watch closely do you notice it. In the vast dining room of this playground of Dave Dubinsky's Ladies Garment Workers, you can see the symbolism. Reuther and Meany eat at separate tables only inches apart, often back to back.

BRONZE GIRL—Bronze expert Mike Parise (on top of ladder) and two other workers examine the statue of Freedom atop the Capitol dome in Washington. After the lady received her first physical examination in nearly 100 years, it was recommended that bronze straps be used to prevent her from coming apart at the seams.

Conservation Reserve Signup Process Explained

Farmers should bring along the necessary information when they file a request for a basic conservation reserve rate at the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office at Canfield, according to L. L. Moff, chairman of the Mahoning County ASC Committee.

The deadline for requesting that a basic annual rate per acre be established for land offered under the 1960 program is Sept. 10.

The Mahoning office has regular forms to be filled out when farmers apply for a basic rate. Information needed to complete the form includes a description of the acreage for which the basic rate is requested and the crop production history of the land. For each crop, details will be needed as to the acres and the yield per acre for each of the years 1955 through 1959.

After the basic rate for a farm is established, the farmer will have an opportunity to file an application for a conservation reserve contract.

Moff also reminded farmers that land for which a basic rate is requested must be "eligible" land. To be eligible, land must have had a crop harvested from it or must have been in regular rotation during 1959. In addition, tame hay land may be placed in the conservation reserve provided it has a stand of perennial grasses or legumes normally established by land preparation and seeding.

Tame hay land must also have had hay or silage harvested from it in three of the four years, 1956-1959. Farmers who have questions about the Conservation Reserve can contact the ASC office at Canfield.

VET NOT 'TOO GOOD'

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Old soldier Walter W. Williams, 116, spent a second night out from under his oxygen tent Monday night but his daughter, Willie Mae Bowles reported "he's not doing too good."

Williams, the Civil War's last living soldier, has been in critical condition for several weeks. His doctor said he failed to regain his strength after an attack of pneumonia.

$20,000 Suit Filed In Motorcycle Mishap

LISBON — A suit for $20,000 for personal injuries and damages caused in a motorcycle-auto accident was filed in Common Pleas Court Monday by Jack B. Donnelly of Lisbon Rd.

Paul Hostetter of Salem RD 4 and Howard Donnelly of Austintown were named the defendants.

Jack Donnelly claims that on June 28, 1955 he was riding a motorcycle north on County Road 410, about one mile south of Salem, when Hostetter approaching on the Wooddale Road, failed to stop at the intersection, striking the motorcycle, also crashed into it, the plaintiff alleges.

POISON TRACED

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Food poisoning which felled an estimated 300 persons here Sunday has been traced to potato salad served at two group picnics. State and county health officials made the announcement after tests of food served both groups by the same catering service.
